* Dobla assortment free from Titanium dioxide (E171)

The EU has reviewed the usage of E171 as a food additive and is finalizing the implementation of a full ban. The starting date of this new legislation has not been decided yet by the EU, but is expected soon. Prior to this ban a six month transition (phasing out) period will apply.

In anticipation of the expected full ban of E171 within the EU, we have reviewed our assortment and adapted the concerning items that used to contain E171. This to ensure that (y)our products comply with the expected new EU legislation.

What does this mean in detail?

- All items that used to contain E171 have been replaced in this collection by products with new recipes without E171. These items have new article numbers.
- The items that used to contain E171 (old article numbers, not included in this collection) will remain available while stocks last and within the 6-month transition period set by the EU.
- In case EU-legislation does not apply to your company/business, items with E171 will only be available on request (Made-to-Order only). Please contact us for details and conditions.

At Dobla we strive to use as much natural colouring as possible for our chocolate creations that contain colouring. In case you have any questions, please contact your Dobla sales representative.

Three chestnut cakes, known as 'Chestnut symphony', are arranged diagonally on a white marble surface. Each cake is a small, fluted, golden-brown ring. They are topped with a swirl of light-colored cream, garnished with fresh blueberries, a single red cherry, and small pieces of candied orange. A delicate, yellow, leaf-shaped edible decoration is placed on top of each cake. A dotted line points from the text 'Curvy leaf yellow' to the leaf on the middle cake.
